The Sun Is Coming!

I promise, someday it will be Spring and sunny here in Chicagoland. But, did you know that a baby can get a sun burn in as little as 10 to 15 minutes even on a cloudy day? We've found a whole bunch of sun related skin care facts that all parents should know about. Please, for the sake of your baby's future modeling career, read all of them right here!

May Fair

Speaking of Spring, what better way to celebrate than a May Fair. Join me at the Chicago Waldorf School's annual May Fair on Saturday, May 14th from 10 am to 4 pm. Featured activities for tots to teens include:

Favorite Things

This has to be one of my favorite toys! The 8 simple, stacking cups are an excellent first toy for a baby. And let me tell you why . . .

- 1) Nesting: The first activity is to nest the cups neatly into each other.
- 2) Stacking: The little cups stack on top of each other to make a tower. Oh the fun of knocking it over!
- 3) Dishwasher Safe: After a day of drooling, chewing and dropping on the floor, get them clean for the next day's play.
- 4) Bath: Forget the fancy bath toys . . . toddlers love to pour water from cup to cup.
- 5) Beach: Scoop the sand to make tiny sand castles.
- 6) Water: Either at the beach or in the tub, the little cups have tiny holes at the bottom so you can drizzle a little stream of water on baby's hands or legs . . . they love it!
- 7) Color: Soft, gentle colors that respect baby's sensitive eyes.
- 8) Safe: PVC, Phthalate, and BPA free.

And they're cheap, too! Learn more.

Completely Black and White

The Daughter and I were walking to school. She was running ahead of me. It was 10:30 in the morning and we were going to a school assembly on a day that The Daughter is not normally in school. And at 10:30, not many people were out on the street. She was probably further than I would normally let her go from me, but she knows where her school is, so I felt comfortable with her being about 100 feet ahead of me. I could see her and she was steering clear of the street. A cop was parked along the sidewalk and The Daughter stopped to wave at the cop. The cop immediately got out of the car, and even at my distance, I could hear the cop ask The Daughter if she was alone. I could tell that The Daughter just looked at the cop without responding. (Quick . . . in your mind's eye, what does the cop . . .
